Family Law

James P. O'Flarity, 201 S.E. Second Street, Fort Lauderdale, Florida, has been appointed Membership Chairman of the Section of Family Law of the American Bar Association for the state of Florida.

The Section of Family Law of the ABA is the Section of the Bar which deals with the law affecting marriage and the family. This Section was organized in 1958 to promote the objects of the ABA by improving the administration of justice in the field of family law by study, conferences, publication of reports and articles with respect to both legislation and administration in all matters connected therewith.

It is estimated that one-third of all civil actions commenced in the courts today are actions affecting marriage and the family. With rapidly changing life styles and attitudes toward marriage, the courts and lawyers have been called upon to play an ever-increasing role. The rights of juveniles and women are also becoming the subject of litigation.

This area of family law has become an ever-increasing area of expertise.

The Chairman of the Section of Family Law of the American Bar Association is the Honorable Ralph J. Podell, Judge of the Circuit Court of Milwaukee County, Wisconsin, who is an outstanding authority in the area of family law. A membership drive to enroll more lawyers in this public service area of the law is currently being conducted by Leonard L. Loeb, Chairman of the Membership Committee of this Section of the ABA. This Section carries on a training program for lawyers in the form of continuing education and publications in the Federal Courts

Hopefully, the Federal Court facilities in Broward County will be in full operation by the summer. Jury trials should begin in June.

A new Jury Plan for the United States District Court, Southern District of Florida, one that creates a separate jury division for Broward County, has been executed by all of the judges and forwarded to a Reviewing Panel of the Judicial Council for the Fifth Circuit.

It has been difficult to obtain voter registration lists for this district which consists of twelve counties. When the lists are obtained, all names must be placed upon all lists in the various master jury wheels for the five different jury divisions. Names will then be withdrawn from the master jury wheels and questionnaires sent to those individuals. Each questionnaire will be inspected to determine those who are disqualified or exempt from jury service. The names of those found to be qualified will be placed in the qualified jury wheels of the five divisions. At that time grand and petit jury panels can be drawn.

This does not encompass all of the administrative requirements. However, everything possible is being done to complete the procedure and begin full operation of the Court.

Loomis v. Loomis, 20 So. 2nd 125.

"The record shows that both the parties had previously indulged in a romance that led to Hymen's alter but the yoke was so cumbersome that a prayer for divorce was answered in the affirmative. As a prelude to the present venture they first met at a Miami beer tavern, went on a journey to the beach, experienced an abbreviated courtship and got married as soon as the wedding paraphernalia could be resurrected and dusted.

"Soon after the honeymoon slipped into the bread and butter phase, he discovered that she was possessed of a bad temper, was a poor cook and miserable housekeeper and then charged her with being untrue to him. About the same time, she discovered that he was afflicted with a vile tongue, a nasty disposition and worked over-time searching for excuses to abuse her. Both appear to have had frequent attacks of nostalgia for the beer tavern where the courtship germinated. On this appeal, he contends that equity should draw the sting out of his abuse and deny the divorce because she neglected to sew on his buttons, fed him with 'cold cuts' out of tin cans, and because all the trouble was caused by his mother-in-law camping on the side lines heaving brickbats into the matrimonial chassis.

"These defenses add color to a family row but, as the Chancellor found, when they are unsupported by evidence they add nothing to a plea to head off divorce. They are not only ineffective against divorce in this case, they reveal a household philosophy on the part of appellant that is as antiquated and full of 'bugs' as a bag of last summer's cowpeas. It is admitted that he brought home the bacon but he overlooked the posies and the chocolate that add flavor to the bacon and remove many a squeak from the household rolling stock.

"After being twice entrapped, neither party appears to have been able to cultivate the bon vivant habit; neither could they discern that bon mots strewn along the pathway are much better to dissolve marital stresses than salt and pepper. From the evidence adduced, it appears to have been a case of Tobacco Road colliding with Main Street, absent the grace of God sufficient to fuse the two cultures. In fact, if either party had exercised as much discrimination at the beer tavern as a school boy would exercise in going to the butcher to get a bone for his poodle, they might have saved themselves a trip to the divorce court."
